OBITUARY. William T. Lane.

William T. Lane, for many year, lentified with the buriness, political and religious life of this city, died a william T. Lane, for many years identified with the buriness, political, and religious life of this city, died at his home on Perkins avenue carly Friday morning after a few days' illness. On Wednesday last Mr. Lane was 67 years old, having been born in Clinton, Ont., March 7, 1850. He entered early upon the trade of harness-making, and in 1876 established himself in that business in Norwich, removing after a time from his original location on Franklin square to the store on Water street, where his work was at last so suddenly interrupted. Since 1903 he had been the New England representative of The Strecker Brothers Co. of Marietta, O., prominent among dealers in leather goods, and for a time travelled quite extensively. He was a keen observer, also, of all matters of civic and national interest, and in 1888-9 represented Norwich in the state legislature.

On coming to the city he promptly connected himself with the Broadway Congregational church, and from the first served it with conspicuous loyalty and fidelity. As a devoted student of the Scriptures, he naturally found the work of the Sunday school especially near his heart. In the Broadway Sunday school he was superintendent from 1890 to 1838, and in the Euckingham chapel held the same office from 1905 to 1999. In addition he gave many years to each of these schools as a teacher, and left a marked impress upon the life of many a boy and man. He served on the committee of the church some twenty years in all, and bore his part willingly in every important enterprise. In January, 1916, he was chosen a deacon, succeeding the late Waterman R. Burnham.

In all these relations Mr. Lane ln all these relations Mr. Lane showed himself conscientious, earnest, and diligent, unsparing of himself, and a warm-hearted friend. Not less was his devotion to his family. On June 9, 1875, in Enfield, Colin, he married Miss Annie E. Kingsbury. Four sons, William K. Lane of Brooklyn, N. Y., George C. Lane of Mystic, Frederic T. Lane of Boston and Richard E. Lane of Danielson, and one daughter, Mrs. George R. Fellows of this city, together with Mrs. Lane, sprvive him, and share the sympathy of no small company of friends.

Mrs. Daniel Lucy. The death of Mrs. Daniel Lucy occurred Thursday evening at her home on Cliff street about 330. Mrs. Lucy had been suffering for some time from injuries received in a fall when she hurt one of her hips. She was the daughter of Florence and Mary Haggerty Driscoll. Her husband passed away many years ago and Mrs. Lucy went to work heroically and reared her children to be useful members of society.

She is survived by two sons, Danie J. Lucy, who is in the shee business in New London and Jeremiah D. Lucy who is in the employ of his brother. There are two daughters, Mrs. James F. Eirmann and Miss Nellie Lucy, both of whom reside at home and a grand. of whom reside at home and a grand-child. Margaret Eirmann. She testified that she was married to Derby in Boston on Feb. 21, 1994, and that he deserted her about March 1, 1905. She lived in Haverhill at the time of her marriage, but she went to New London in 1907. Mrs. Derby said that her husband left her intending to look for a position, but he did not tell her where he was going, and she has not seen him since. Some time after his departure she heard of him in New Hampshire and she wrote to him asking him to come back. He replied that he had secured a divorce from her and that was the last time she heard from him.

Judge Tuttle then heard the petition of Mrs. Ida Cordie McMoran of New London from Eugene F. McMoran, also of New London, on the grounds of habitual intemperance and intolerable cruelty. Mrs. McMoran testified that she was married to McMoran in June, 1910, after she had known him only about two months. RIDAY EVENING AT

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH. Stagnation or Victory, Which? Was

At the service Friday evening at the First Baptist church Evangellet Linden spoke on the subject Stagnation or Victory, Which? He used the text "Thou art not far from the Kingdom of God." He showed who the kingdom subject is and it was made very plain that a definite experience is required in becoming a subject. He pointed out the fact that God's best was for those who would choose it and that if the the best was not taken the only thing that was left was stagnation. Victory belongs to the kingdom subject and stagnation to the quitter.

A splendid program is prepared for all in Norwich who will avail themselves of the opportunity and attend the meeting at the First Baptist church tonight. The Booster boys and girls are ready to give their songs, stunts and yells. No price of admission is charged, every seat is free and and a big and hearty invitation is extended to everybody to come. This will be the best shown in town, and it costs you nothing. There ought to be a capacity crowd filling the auditorium to encourage the boys and girls in the effort they are going to make. The boys and girls themselves are anxious that their parents and friends should be present.
